

I travel extensively and find XM Radio of exceptional value. I see no reason why the FCC should stop XM from providing Instant Traffic & Weather. This service is provided in a non-competative mode and is received without having to search the dial while driving the car. It is available in many remote areas not covered by convential radio. Lets not stiffle technical advances and progress and allow freedom of broadcasting.